

The Unsettling is a collection of thirteen stories that range across the cities and wildernesses of America. Realistic in setting and characterization, they attend to those startling moments when what we have understood as familiar is revealed as quite mysterious and foreign. These stories (which have appeared in leading literary journals such as Zoetrope, Tin House and One Story) are populated by strangers, ghosts, and other shadowy figures whose intentions may be sinister or quite the opposite. A lonely man saving library books from an outbreak of mold listens to his co-worker's tale of a blind woman and imbues it with his own sense of romance; a mysterious woman drives a Gold Firebird out of the desert, the television on the passenger seat playing Rockford Files reruns, The Guinness Book of World Records on the dashboard; nights, a girl returns to her childhood home, spying on its new inhabitants, not realizing that they're quite aware of her surveillance; a Poe-obsessed medical examiner constructs ornate scenes in an attempt to provoke hope in the forgotten lives of a dark and desperate city. These are stories of fascination, transformation, and the relation between the two.
